

Rio Grande Rescue:

Prairie Dog Pals visited Villa Doro (new housing development off Rio Grande) to capture a lone prairie dog that was threatening the neighborhood. See picture below.....really

It is unclear where this prairie dog came from (maybe the WIPP). It was not a resident (of the neighborhood) and appeared after construction was complete. There are no prairie dog colonies nearby. We suspect she took the Rapid Ride down Central and relocated herself to the west side! Does she know something the rest of us on the east side don't know? Does the opening of additional lanes on Montano and completion of the Coors interchange suggest a mass migration? Your guess is as good as mine (probably better). She's a yearling and in good health with the exception of a slightly bald tail. The residents can sleep calmly tonight!
